

A system built to move.

Momentum Digital + AI division

Brand system v2 · Design review draft · September 2026

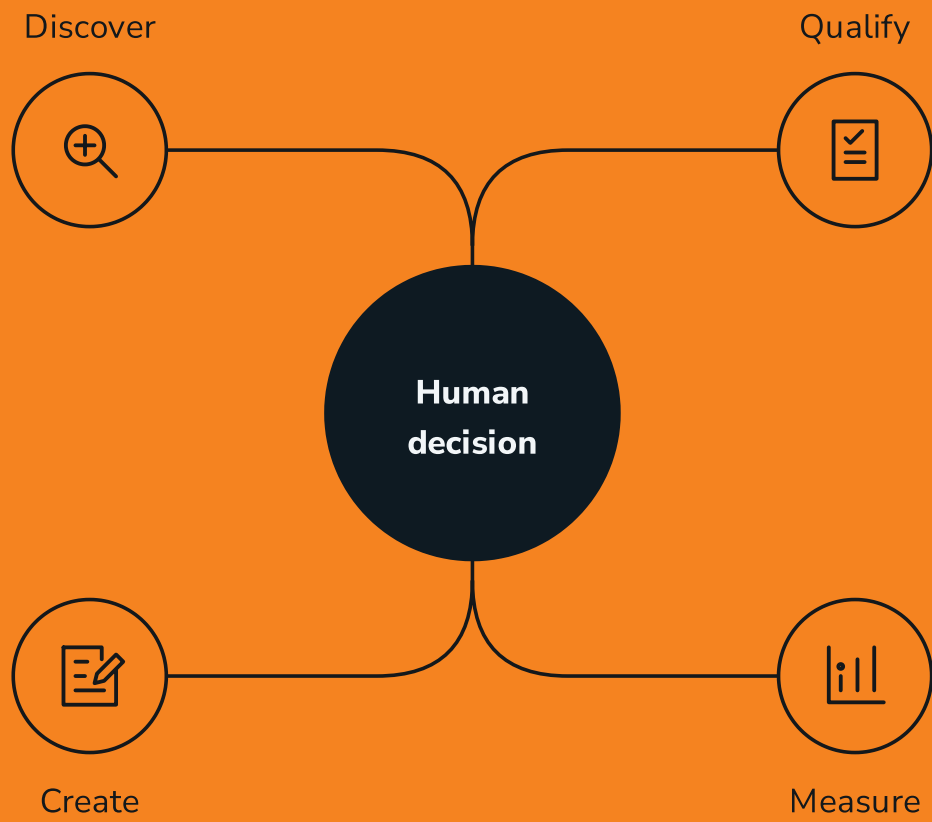

Confident type. Useful motion. An unmistakable identity, from the first frame to the final page.

Make the complex feel clear.

Our proposed visual language turns AI workflows into something you can follow, understand, and put to work.

Structure with energy.

Detail with a purpose.

Proposed direction: The working publication

Exact identity. More expressive craft.

Recognizable. Never repetitive.

Keep the blue and orange. Give them distinct jobs. Blue carries the identity; orange directs attention. Warm paper lets dense reading breathe.

Bold ideas. Clear delivery.

Good typography gives each idea the space it needs. Strong headlines establish the point. A calm reading face carries the explanation.

Nunito Sans · Body / navigation / captions

18 px body · 1.6 line height · 68-character measure

A publication you can use.

Chapter-led navigation, generous reading space, illustrated processes and useful takeaways.
The interactive edition moves; the PDF preserves the same hierarchy.

02

Make the next step unmistakable.

An automation is only as useful as its handoff. Define what moves between people and tools, what needs review, and where incomplete work returns.

Video typography

A single line of thought, enough time to read, and motion that resolves completely before the cut.

Less busywork. More momentum.

The real logo. Every single time.

Identity is a fixed asset. Expression happens around it. These source files are copied exactly, with their original aspect ratios and transparency.

Use the full lockup on calm, light fields. Keep at least half a mark-height of clear space. Use the mark only where brand context is already clear. No redraws, recoloring, stretching, animated logos, or invented AI lockups.
