Saturday Solutions: a little home for the little things. 🧺

The backpack. The water bottle. The shoe that somehow disappears.

Try giving everyday essentials one easy landing spot: a basket, a low hook, or a small shelf. Let your child help choose where things belong and add a label or picture together.

Keep it simple and adapt it to what works in your home. A small routine is a perfectly good place to start.

Monday Reset: one small step is still a step. 🕒

Some weeks arrive with a very long list. You do not have to sort it all out today.

Choose one thing you can realistically finish: put an appointment on the calendar, gather one document you need, or write down a question for your next conversation.

Make it specific. Give yourself a little time. Then notice what you did get done.

A fresh start can be small.
